

Message from the Founder/Executive Director

My mom passed away in 1994. Recently while thinking about her, I reflected upon how pleased she would be if she were here now and could see how happy I am.

Much of this happiness comes from the people and cultures that surround me.

My family is very close. We care about each other, respect and appreciate our differences, walk the talk, know how to laugh, cry and celebrate together. We are there for each other – always.

At The Charmm'd Foundation, we are a strong team. We have built a very safe environment where we can share our thoughts, know we will be listened to, can collaborate, learn and problem-solve. We have passion for our work, empathy for those around us, respect for diverse points of view, commitment to doing our best as well as being our best and joy for making a difference.

Then there are friends, thought partners and other advisors all who are there offering support and sharing their viewpoints – from their specific prism and with the experience and special gifts they possess.

Yes. It is these safe, comfortable surroundings that allow me to be me, to grow, enjoy and help others.

It is with our greatest pleasure that all of us at The Charmm'd Foundation offer our resources to you. These resources focus on many of the traits discussed above. We hope you too enjoy being a part of a number of cultures that bring you happiness.

Gratefully,

Sheri Miller

Founder/Executive Director

P.S. Mom, thanks for being one of my first awesome role models. You are the wind beneath my wings.
